

CHRIS FITE-WASSILAK AND COPY PRESS INVITE YOU TO

‘I’ without guarantees

from The Puddle Jumper, Marin Munkacsi 1934

An evening of readings exploring the use of self and the essay form by authors who hover around that space where messy lives meet words, where ideas born of experience find textual springing off points; authors who raid their own lives to atomise any theories of existence and build their own informal philosophies.

Preface: Vit Hopley

Readings: Emily LaBarge,
Ben Eastham,
Aurelia Guo,
Chris Fite-Wassilak

Afterword: Yvette Greslé, Cecile Malaspina and All

Upstairs at The Island Queen
87 Noel Road, London, N1 8HD

Thursday, 20 July, 6.30–8.30pm

The event will start promptly at 6.45.
Booking essential. Please RSVP.

CP Reader's Union seeks common spaces for readers and writers to delve into the possibilities and limitations of 'coming together' in our contemporary society. www.copypress.co.uk

info@copypress.co.uk
copypress.co.uk
@_CopyPress

YVE LOMAX AND COPY PRESS INVITE YOU TO

‘I’ without guarantees

Olga, Havana Jose A Figueroa 1967

an evening of reading fiction, philosophical prose and poem from authors who make saying ‘I’ a ground for their experiments, who say ‘I’ without guarantees. ‘An “I” without guarantees!’ writes Ingeborg Bachmann, ‘what is the ‘I’, what could it be?’

Preface: Yve Lomax

Readings: Alice Hattrick
Yvette Greslé
Laura Oldfield Ford
Andra Simons

Afterword: Jessica Potter, Kristen Kreider and All

Upstairs at The Island Queen
87 Noel Road, London, N1 8HD

Thursday, 9 November, 6.30–8.30pm

The event will start promptly at 6. 45.
Booking essential. Please RSVP.

CP Reader’s Union seeks common spaces for readers and writers to delve into the possibilities and limitations of ‘coming together’ in our contemporary society. www.copypress.co.uk

info@copypress.co.uk
copypress.co.uk
@_CopyPress

KRISTEN KREIDER AND COPY PRESS INVITE YOU TO

'I' without guarantees

An evening of readings, soundings and ponderings about the 'I's relation to 'you'. We are each others' echo, says the linguist Emile Benveniste. 'I' posits another person, the one who, being as she is, completely exterior to 'me', becomes my echo – to whom I say 'you' and who says 'you' to me.' So echo greets us from the outside. So we form ourselves in relation. So we work towards a new poetics of 'us'.

Preface: Kristen Kreider

Readings: Barbara Campbell-Lange
Kate Pickering
Caroline Ravourdin
NaoKo TakaHashi
Anne Tallentire

Afterword: Isobel Harbison, Eley Williams and All

Upstairs at The Island Queen
87 Noel Road, London, N1 8HD

Thursday, 8 February, 6.30–8.30pm

The event will start promptly at 6.45.
Booking essential. Please RSVP.

CP Reader's Union seeks common spaces for readers and writers to delve into the possibilities and limitations of 'coming together' in our contemporary society. www.copypress.co.uk

info@copypress.co.uk
copypress.co.uk
@_CopyPress